Memorial Day Essay

We pay tribute to our fallen soldiers on Memorial Day. Our right to be free should be remembered because the military vow to serve us and our country... for our liberty.

Liberty is the right to have freedom and in America, we are given such freedom to speak and believe what want. Our military has gone to war to fight for such privileges. The military has fought wars that were unfair and men and women given their lives to fight for our right to have freedom.

On Memorial Day, a day that we honor the active military, that have fought and died while serving for the American people. We need to stop and give thanks because without their courage and strength we would be living a different life.

We would live a life within an government that did not give people the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. The men and women of the military take an oath to serve and protect. They put their lives in danger for the good of us all people.

I believe that is such a selfless thing to do. We americans should always honor our military. It is a very brave and honorable job to fight for your country and to fight for what you believe. All people are equal and we should live and respect one another.
